

Middle School: Summer Reading 2017

Terror at Bottle Creek* by Watt Key

In this gritty, realistic wilderness adventure, thirteen-year-old Cort is caught in a battle against a Gulf Coast hurricane. Cort's father is a local expert on hunting and swamp lore in lower Alabama who has been teaching his son everything he knows. But when a deadly Category 3 storm makes landfall, Cort must unexpectedly put his all skills-and bravery-to the test. Amid miles of storm-thrashed wetlands filled with dangerous, desperate wild animals, it's up to Cort to win-or lose-the fight for their lives.

How to (Almost) Ruin Your Summer* by Taryn Souders

Chloe McCorkle is willing to do anything in order to avoid having to ride her hot pink "Dora the Explorer" bike to her first day of middle school --- well, anything but go to summer camp, that is. Unfortunately, when you're 11-years-old, what mom and dad says goes. Leaving behind her friends, her stuffed elephant (too dorky to bring to camp) and her plans to get rich babysitting, Chloe begrudgingly heads to Camp Minnehaha for what she is sure is going to be the worst two weeks ever.

The War That Saved My Life* by Kimberly Brubaker Bradley

Born with a club foot, nine-year-old Ada is locked in a room and can only gaze out the window at her younger brother playing with his friends in the London streets. Fears about bombs dropping, children are sent to the countryside to keep them safe. Together they join lonely, recluse Mrs. Smith, the only one to volunteer to take care of them. Ada cannot always read her benefactor's intentions, but she learns to trust, just as she learns to ride a horse named Butter. From victor to victorious, especially after the battle of Dunkirk, this is a story of one girl's courage.

Courage for Beginners* by Karen Harrington

If only Mysti could be a character in a book, then she would know how to deal with her mother, who is agoraphobic and unable to leave the house; with her best friend, who decides he's too cool for her; and with all the changes and challenges in her life, that shift into focus when her father is hurt, and the pantry is slowly emptying. With the help of new friends, including the unflappable Rama Khan, Mysti finds the courage to change her own story.

The Nerdy Dozen* by Jeff Miller

When classified U.S. military intelligence is compromised, teenage gamers must save the day. Taken in the middle of the night by the Air Force, Neil Andertol and eleven other gaming whizzes train to fly stealth fighter jets that have top-secret invisibility technology. It turns out that mastering the controls is the easy part. Can Neil face down a bully, a scorned billionaire, and wild ostriches before it's game over?

The Nest* by Kenneth Oppel

Steve's baby brother is very sick and everyone is worried. At night in his dreams, Steve is visited by what he thinks is an angel who convinces him that she will make the baby perfect as long as he agrees to help. Steve soon discovers that the angel is really a queen wasp from the colony outside his house who, in fixing the baby, plans to make a replacement baby instead.

Moving Target* by Christina Diaz Gonzalez

Cassie Arroyo is a twelve year old girl who lives and goes to school in Rome. Her life is turned upside down when her father is shot by members of a secret organization, the Hastati. Cassie discovers that she is a descendent of a line of people who can use the Spear of Destiny to alter the future.

The Girl Who Drank the Moon* by Kelly Barnhill

In the land of the Protectorate it is an annual tradition to hold the Day of Sacrifice, leaving a baby as an offering for the witch who lives in the forest. When the witch of the forest, Xan, accidentally feeds a baby moonlight instead of starlight, filling her with strong magic, she decides to raise the baby as her own.

It Ain't So Awful, Falafel* by Firoozeh Dumas

Cindy, a middle schooler whose given name is Zomorod, moves to a new California city with her Iranian parents. Set in the late 70's / early 80's, Cindy has to learn to navigate middle school, balance new friendships, and stay true to her parents and culture all in the face of anti-Iranian racism after the Iran hostage crisis.

Summer Reading Notebook

2017

Name:

Novel:

- 1. Please read your selected novel during the summer break.
- 2. Complete one notebook sheet of your choice for each chapter or section of your novel.
- 3. Bring the completed Reader's Notebook to school on the first day, and be ready to engage in discussions and activities about the novel you read.

Chapter/Page Numbers:

Summary:

Favorite Quote:

Chapter/Page Numbers:

Summary:

Illustration of an Important Scene:

Chapter/Page Numbers:

Summary:

Favorite Description:

Chapter/Page Numbers:

Summary:

Prediction of What May Happen Next:

Chapter/Page Numbers:

Summary:

3 Unfamiliar Words and Definitions:

1.

2.

3.

Chapter/Page Numbers:

Summary:

A Connection I Can Make to this Chapter: